Daystar 2” Leveling Kit for 2011 Chevy 2500 / 3500 HD Now Available

The all-new 2011 Chevy 2500 / 3500 HDs are now on the streets, and they are already proving to be popular among heavy haulers. The things they lack, however, are the ground clearance for even mild off-road use and the room to install a larger tire and wheel package. Fortunately, Daystar Products has already addressed the ride height needs of these new trucks with the release of a new 2” leveling kit that makes room for taller tires without compromising ride quality.

Though the new Chevy HD has the same basic independent front suspension with torsion bars used on the previous generation truck, this is where the similarities end. All of the suspension components are different on the new truck, including the torsion bars and torsion keys themselves. In order to achieve lift, Daystar developed all-new forged torsion keys that have been re-indexed to allow more ride height adjustment. In addition to re-indexing, however, the new Daystar torsion keys also match the contours present on the top of the factory keys. This contour allows them to properly seat in the torsion bar crossmember and ensures that the keys offer quiet, trouble-free operation for the life of the vehicle. Daystar’s torsion keys provide up to 2” of lift without compromising ride quality or load-carrying capacity. In addition to the torsion keys themselves, Daystar’s new HD Leveling kit includes shock extensions so that the factory front shock absorbers can be retained.

Daystar’s HD torsion keys are forged from high-quality steel just like the factory keys and are proudly manufactured in the USA. Like all of Daystar’s product line, this new leveling kit (Part # KG09123) is also backed by a Lifetime Warranty. Priced at just $129.95, Daystar’s newest leveling kit is also an unbeatable value. There may be other leveling kits available, but why settle for close enough? Only Daystar’s leveling kits offer the looks, longevity, and performance that consumers demand.
